The dispatch of former Governor Lind of Minnesota to Mexico as an unofficial envoy rather than as a means of getting impartial reports on the situation in Mexico, Governor Lind had bad experiences in the diplomatic world or in Latin America, but his reports impressed both President Wilson and Secretary Bryan as valid and accurate. Mr. Wilson had the idea, however, that the Mexican policy on which he was embarked would have no influence upon other nations. On the other hand, the arbitrary usurpation of power by governments by physical force had unsettled Latin America for generations. President Wilson became convinced of the necessity of taking such a stand in order that nothing might be done toward stabilizing the governmental situations in Latin America. Confirmation of this view was publicly given when Mr. Wilson made his famous speech at Mobile early in 1914, declaring that the United States did not wish to add another foot of territory to the Americas. His colleague and the other American government bowed upon the efforts of any American citizens to extort concessions of peoples to the south.

GEORGIA FOUR TO ONE FOR MC ADOO

(By Associated Press)

Atlanta, Ga.—William G. McAdoo, former secretary of the treasury, swept Georgia yesterday in the democratic state presidential primary.

Defeated Senator Oscar W. Underwood, of Miss., his only opponent, by a four to one vote.

McAdoo received by newspaper early today from all but five out of the 160 counties in the state showed the senator defeating Underwood by a total convention vote of 326, against 36 counties with total convention votes of 46, Underwood.

Primary returns from the remaining 155 counties could not be obtained and in four additional counties no primary was held. These nine counties have a total convention vote of 18.

McAdoo, Georgia's native son, carried Colquitt county in which he was born by a large majority, but lost Baldwin county, in which he spent his boyhood, to his opponent, by a vote of 825 to 497.

BLAINE HALTS EXTRADITION OF 'BIG STEVE'

Governor Blaine refused, Wednesday, to grant extradition of Stanislaus Edward "Big Steve" McFadden, 31, of Oshkosh, to Milwaukee, where he was charged with having been in the same violation as the Wisconsin gangster, who has been tried in the Rock county circuit court next fall. E. H. Ryan, Janesville, is McFadden's attorney.

RAIDS TO CHANGE FREE STATE ARMY

(By Associated Press)

Oshkosh — The early morning raid on the meeting of officers in the Free State Army, yesterday, in having far-reaching results, and a complete new regime for the Free State army is foreseen.

Among these national developments following the raid were the resignation of Richard Mulcahy as minister of defense and a meeting of the executive committee.

In addition to Mulcahy's retirement, the members decided to ask for the resignations of General MacMahon, chief of staff, General O'Sullivan, adjutant general, and General O'Meara, quartermaster general.

The whole affair grows out of the army "mutiny," which was brought to the attention of the public by General Edmon Tobin and Col. John DeMolay, a change in the army's command and denouncing the policy of widespread demobilization of officers who had "endeavored to place the country on the road to freedom."

Coolidge to Sign Bonus Measure if Left Unchanged

By DAVID LAWRENCE
Copyright 1924 by Janesville Daily Gazette

Washington — President Coolidge probably will sign the endowment policy insurance bill just passed by the house for the benefit of soldiers and sailors who participated in the European war, provided the senate does not materially alter the measure. The president was opposed to a bonus bill that the government had proposed to aid Coolidge and he particularly expressed his sympathy toward the payment of funds to the able-bodied. The new bill in large part takes care of the veterans when they are approaching old age or when they are becoming disabled. It is a bill to relieve their distresses so that they will not be compelled to fritter away the funds given them as savings by the opponents of a large cash outlay.

The principle of the insurance bill is different from previous measures passed by congress and vetoed by the executive. It is a bill to relieve their distresses so that they will not be compelled to fritter away the funds given them as savings by the opponents of a large cash outlay.

Washington — Senator Walsh said today he had information that Wahlberg was in Havana, Cuba. If this is the case, the president is without power to compel his attendance and, since Mr. Hayes has been subpoenaed to appear before the committee, it will be up to Dr. Wahlberg to decide whether he will be further impeded. In a letter to Chairman Dempsey, Mr. Weeks regretted that in the last congress he submitted a report on legislation similar to the bill measure.

OFFICERS ELECTED BY GUERNSEY ASS'N

Favor Ashland County Plan of Developing Breed Interests in County.

Development of Guernsey interests in Rock County is proposed through a community program similar to the Ashland county plan was proposed during the annual meeting of the Rock County Guernsey Breeders' association in the Janesville Y. M. C. A. Wednesday. The plan is based around the distributing of cattle to farmers and dairymen desiring to start with this breed and pooling to obtain and use a herd sire of exceptional good quality.

The address of Prof. G. C. Humphrey, Wisconsin college of agriculture, stirred the Guernsey breeders into action. It was admitted that the Guernsey interests of the county have not been pushed and developed to the extent of other breeds and to the point the breed merits.

Officers were elected as follows: President, R. K. Overton; vice president, E. B. Kersten; secretary-treasurer, Marcus Kellogg, Janesville; executive committee, Dr. W. A. Munn, Janesville; W. J. Douglas Beloit; A. S. Knudson and E. L. Berg, Brodhead.

"Wisconsin dairymen should not be satisfied," declared Prof. Humphrey, detailing the advance of the industry in Wisconsin. "It is the purpose of these great high grade cattle. We must have faith in the livestock industry, not neglecting our herds, but keeping constant improvement in view of the high standard."

Hoosier Calf Club

The Ashland association plan was explained as a successful means of developing breed interests. A pool is formed whereby beginning farmers are financed in the purchasing of new animals.

The Guernsey association favored help for the calf club, and the committee named for this work, in securing members and good quality calves, composed of the following: W. J. Douglas, Otto Golling, W. H. Pottier, J. A. Methven and C. Nisbet. All calves condemned for club work must pass the inspection of the agents named by the committee.

Exhibiting of grade cattle at the fair, both for a C. T. A. demonstration and show ring competition was favored. W. J. Douglas and a committee composed of Jerry Shull, W. H. Pottier, and others, who have worked out the details of the grade cattle exhibit, which has been approved by the Janesville fair board. The exhibit will have three divisions, one of which will be competitor for C. T. A. grades with premiums to be awarded on the following basis: Forty per cent for butterfat production, 20 per cent for milk production and 40 per cent for true type. Dr. Munn, W. J. Douglas and Marcus Kellogg were named on the committee to aid in the election of the Guernsey cattle for the exhibit.

Dairy Show Herd

R. K. Overton, who visited, urged extension work for the better marketing of Guernsey milk and products. J. C. Nisbet spoke on county development work and of the necessity of Rock having a great herd of Guernseys for the national dairy show. Dr. Munn discussed the Ashland plan and urged a more extensive interest in the Guernsey association. T. P. Shreve spoke on the necessity of protecting the reputation of Wisconsin in the sale of cattle.

An invitation was received to join with Dane county in a Guernsey breeders' picnic.

of us. He denounced concessionaires who interfered with the processes of orderly government, and who attempted to overthrow one administration in Latin America so that it might be succeeded by another more favorable to these privileged interests.

Unfortunately for Mr. Wilson his own administration did not consistently follow the outline of policy he made at the start of his administration with respect to the recognition of governments which obtained their power by the arbitrary overthrow of the preceding administration. The kidnapping of the president of Costa Rica, the success of his vice president was followed by recognition extended in the usual way by the Wilson administration and there are other cases in Central America in which the United States found that expediency required the recognition of the existing regime giving it moral support rather than the encouragement of a period of chaos.

Theoretically Mr. Wilson's policy of insisting upon the orderly processes of government and free elections to prevent disturbance was adopted toward the formulation of a policy which some day may be more literally followed than it was in his administration but the fight made against Huerta did not lead to the recognition of the Huerta regime. Mr. Wilson had many temptations conflicts with the British foreign office over the apparent support given to the Huerta regime by the British government, support intended to no small extent by the large oil interests of British companies whose influence in the British foreign office was appreciable.

Mr. Wilson felt of course that the Hay-Pauncefote treaty guaranteed Great Britain against discrimination and he was ready to ask congress for the repeal of the Panama Canal tolls act to bring into the act the clause of obtaining a reciprocal pledge from Great Britain whereby the London foreign office would exercise its great influence with the Japanese in bringing about a peaceful solution of the Japanese-American controversy.

Great Britain, by virtue of the Anglo-Japanese alliance, was in a position to hold Japan at bay in the event of an emergence of war spirit. It had never been unequivocally established whether in the event of war between Japan and the United States, Great Britain would be on the contrary it gave the initiators in Central and South America an opportunity to insist that the United States was trying to interfere in the internal affairs of sovereign countries and that one step of interference could well follow another.

CHICKEN THIEF GETS NINE MONTHS

150 Hear Talk on South America

Asses' milk costs $1 per quart in Argentina.

Cows' milk obtained by milking the animals in the stable is worth 50 cents a quart, being "Fresh" milk, and when delivered is only worth 25 cents.

These were some of the interesting facts detailed by Prof. George Humphrey, Madison, Wisconsin College of Agriculture, at the agricultural meeting of the Methodist church brothers held here, Wednesday night. There were 150 people attending, with C. E. Moore and R. T. Glusco in charge of the program.

Slides were shown by Prof. Humphrey obtained when he went to Argentina to judge dairy cattle at the South American exhibit. South Americans consider 1,000 acres a "small farm," and obtain 200 lbs. to 100 pounds of milk a day from their milk cows, milked but once a day. Argentines would doubt the ability of a Wisconsin dairy cow to milk 85 and 100 pounds a day.

In addition to the illustrated lecture there was an entertainment by the Banover club.

11-B Girls Win Exciting Contest

CITY HALL IS SUGGESTED AS SESSION HALL

With a tie at the end of the game, and seven minutes overtime play necessary to decide the game, the contest between the 11-B and 10-A classes in the high school girls' basketball tournament Wednesday night was the feature game of the three played.

The final score was 14-12 in favor of the 11-B's.

Six field goals were scored by Marjorie Earle, who also got two free throws. For the 10-A's, Marguerite Mantel, Jr., with two baskets, and Naomi Lancaster, Jr., with four, starred.

Lineups were as follows: 11-B: Ardiss Wittenberg, center; June Cage, Katherine Mungian, centers; Vivian Bidwell, Edith Rashid, Mildred Mahnberg, guards; 10-A: Dorothy Bass, Dorothy Kolwitz, guards; Corine Robbins, Agnes Cronk, centers; Naomi Lancaster and Marguerite Mantel, Jr., forwards.

The 11-B team defeated 10-A, 14-12, in the first half, with Helen Pitts, 12, in fast break, with Helen Pitts, 11, scoring nine baskets, and Mary Madden, four and Gladys Miller, one. Others on the team were Irene Daetwiler, Katherine Denning, Thysbie Doss, Alice Wittenberg, right forward for the 12-B's, made five baskets and Alice Ward, three. Mabel Casey was 12, Marjorie Venable, 11, Esther Hill and Wilma Hart, centers.

Intermissions and lack of team work hampered the 10-A team, the youngest entered, from giving the 12 A team any active competition, and they lost 32-22. Peg Remmington for the 12-A's made 12 field goals, 12, pitchers, two and Hilda Cushing, one. The only goal for the under classmen was made by Dorothy Olson.

CITY ATTORNEY IS UPHELD BY JUDGE

Defendants in City Ordinance Cases Can't Demand Jury Trials.

Defendants in cases involving violation of the city ordinances are not entitled to jury trials as a matter of right, but may have trial by jury if the court sees fit. Judge H. L. Maxfield ruled Thursday in municipal court, prior to the opening of the jury trial of Walter Swanson, city attorney charged with speeding March 9. The court's ruling upholds the contention advanced by City Attorney Roger C. Cunningham that the Swanson case was called Monday.

Must Pay in Advance.

Following is the ruling:

"The court rules that in proceedings for the violation of city ordinances, being proceedings for the enforcement of police regulations, the defendant is not entitled to a jury trial as a matter of right."

"However, in the discretion of the court, any question of fact may be submitted to a jury, and in this case the court, upon the request of the defendant (Mr. Swanson) has decided to submit the question of law to a jury upon payment in advance by the defendant of the fees of such jurors."

Decision Is Important.

The decision is important, insofar as it will affect a large number of automobile drivers who will probably be arrested the next six months on charges of speeding and violation of the state highway ordinance. While such defendants may ask for a jury trial, they may not demand it, the court has held.

Swanson Case Heard.

A six-man jury was drawn for the Swanson case, testimony in which did not begin until 1:45 p.m. Thursday, owing to delay in securing jurors. The city's two witnesses, Patrolmen George Porter and James Ward, were examined before noon, and five or six witnesses for the defense were to take the stand in the afternoon. City Attorney Roger C. Cunningham is prosecuting the case, with J. G. McWilliams representing Swanson.

The city alleges Swanson drove his car 20 to 25 miles an hour up Milwaukee street at 2:45 on the morning of March 9.

This time a year ago we were beginning to that winter we had no such losses to general business as have marked the past 3 months by reason of closed roads.

Mr. Hughes Looks at One Side Only.

Apparently Secretary of State Hughes is not looking far in his recommendations for immigration laws. In this too, he voices the belief of some of our philanthropic citizens who are perfectly willing that the Japanese shall be permitted to come into the United States as freely as they desire,
with no restrictions, because they have little knowledge of the Japanese and their customs, or because they agree with Mr. Hughes that we should not irritate the Japanese government.

We do not conceive that any future treaty obligations either with Japan or any other nation are paramount to the interest America has in her own welfare and the welfare of the people living here.

A few days ago the Gazette spoke of the pressure of the foreign offices against the restrictions in the immigration bill. Mr. Hughes does not want Japanese restriction. It may be hard for him to conceive that the Japanese are a menace to an American community and that they do not permit of assimilation. They form one of the very obstacles to the success of the purpose of immigration—adding to American citizenship those people who will become Americanized and as Michael Pupin says, "Play the game in the American way."

We have that menace all the time in one of the important insular possessions—Hawaii, where the Japanese problem forms the acute question of governmental and social administration constantly.
We simply do not want it in the United States. We have enough of that class of people who do not want to become American citizens and constantly provide difficulty in administration of our laws. Mr. Hughes is looking at one side only —that of diplomacy and peace with all Europe, but if peace is to be had only with Occidental or Oriental at the price of all American hopes and aspirations, we prefer to let the diplomatic situation become acute. Also we do object to Europe and Japan dictating the laws we place on the statute books.

Maybe the trouble with our new hotel is that the management has not promised a radio in each room.

The Prince of Wales ought to take some lessons from our wild west movie actors when it comes to riding.

The Worth of the Frane.

The frane has been steadily going up for a week. The loan to France, the support of the Poincaré government by the Chamber of Deputies, the Dawes partial report on reparations and the general better outlook for European settlements, have had a decidedly good effect on the French finances. The German marks have reached in the past week their highest amount of issue
—one quadrillion in six days, according to the report of the Reichsbank. Part of the sinking spoil which overcame the frane was caused by speculators who, very like the Wall street bears
at times, sold short and sent the exchange price down. A dispatch from Paris calls attention to the report that Ambassador Herrick, at the time
the frane was at its lowest, bought $200,000 worth of French money or about four million francs.
That aided the frane to keep its feet. All commerce was injured by the depreciating mark in Germany. It hurt trade and business generally.
So the frane, joining the mark on the down trend was about to upset all commerce in Europe. Hence it is a event of more than ordinary importance that the frane should be getting back to a solid foundation.

Clyde Wilbur is thinking of flying to his job in Washington. Mr. Daugherty refuses, however, to fly out of his job.

Among other reasons why radio concerts are popular is that there are no encores.

The result of the state primary in North Dakota clearly indicates that Hiram Johnson is entirely out of the race for the presidency so far as being an effective candidate is concerned. It is quite possible that his name will never be presented to the national convention. Robert M.
La Follette on the returns, has beaten Johnson
although La Follette was voted for by stickers which had to be pasted on the ballots. The big story is, however, in the great plurality for Calvin Coolidge. "Health in Coolidge" is established in the state of North Dakota.

In order to relieve the dull monotony of slander in congress will some one please make a speech on the Einstein theory?

Janesville needs representation on the county board by men who have some vision and are not all the time trying to save at the spigot and waste
at the bunghole.

No wonder a woman signing herself a "White

ishment at the three speeches made by three

READING BY EAR

BY FREDERIC J. HASKIN.

Washington.—Mention of the ophophone in a list of the nine greatest scientific triumphs of 1923
has reawakened interest and curiosity in this apparatus which aims to enable the blind to read ordinary print. In the last of 1923 discoveries, which was made by a British scientist, Item eight says: "The ophophone, enabling the blind to read by sound, perfected."

This will probably re-arouse the hopes of many of the 75,000 blind people in this country. For more than a decade they have been hearing about this really wonderful invention which, they were told, would open up to them the libraries of printed literature. But to date the invention has not proved a practical substitute for raised print
by touch, and this country has received no word of new developments which would make it possible for the blind to use the ophophone with ease
and speed.

We have that menace all the time in one of the

We simply do not want it in the United

who do not want to become American citizens and

In two more years d'Albe succeeded in working out this theory in the delicate piece of apparatus which he called the type-reading ophophone. He continued to work with his idea and produced improved models from year to year. The instrument is such that when a book or paper is attached to it, and a telephone receiver, headpiece is placed over the ears of the listener, he can hear a series of light, tinkling sounds. What seems only a confusion of sound to the uninitiated, becomes an intelligible musical code to the practised listener. Each letter of the alphabet is represented by a series of notes like a little musical tune or theme. As the instrument automatically traverses a line of print slowly, the student is conveyed to the ears of the reader.

In 1917, the inventor submitted to a test, and it was announced that he read blindfolded a passage from a morning newspaper which he had never seen. Later, a firm of instrument makers collaborated with him and improvements were made.

About that time, the National Institute for the Blind in England bought an instrument for test.
Two blind persons connected with the institute spent several hours each day learning the musical code. They worked under d'Albe. In the course of eight months the students took a series of tests in which they read extracts from novels and the daily papers. The speed of reading was from two to four words a minute.

This is obviously not a comfortable rate of speed for reading. It would mean roughly about an hour's close attention in order to read one page of a book in large type. The rate of speed of the instrument can be adjusted, but even when it has travelled across a line of print slowly, the student finds it necessary to get it back at the beginning of the line and repeat that line
until the message is clear.

In reporting its test, the institute said:
"The inventors believe a speed of 200 words
a minute can be obtained, but those conducting the test are not so sanguine. They are unanimous in the opinion that adult blind persons would not be able to attain a greater speed than 30 or 35 words a minute, the speed which is reached by expert telegraphists in reading the Morse code, and that even such rate of reading
would not become possible unless a long period
were devoted to the subject without interruption."

The British workers for the blind also pointed out that the instrument is very delicate, complicated and expensive.

In this country the ophophone has likewise had a few tests, but so far no one has attempted to give it the years of study that would seem to be necessary if real speed in reading is to be achieved.

Twenty years ago, Miss Margaret Hogan, the first blind woman to graduate from Columbia University and a teacher with the New Jersey State Commission for the Blind, learned the code and gave several demonstrations. American workers for the blind attended one of these tests, hoping that the instrument might seem really practical. They came away with the opinion that they had seen a beautiful piece of apparatus that embodied an interesting scientific discovery, but they were rather less hopeful than the British experts, so far as its use by blind readers was concerned.

Mrs. Gertrude T. Rider, Librarian of the Room for the Blind in the Library of Congress, attended this demonstration. She says: "The reader was a blind college graduate of ability who had studied the machine almost a year. In the course of half an hour, she read correctly half of one of a magazine article, omitting line two entirely.
I cite this to illustrate the possibility of reading words by ophophone, and at the same time to show that at the present time even an expert student can read but painstakingly and slowly."

Mrs. Rider finds that at present the ophophone is in the laboratory stage, and that while it is unlikely that it will ever become useful to the average adult reader it may become useful to the young blind in schools. In a school a number of years could be devoted to its study, and young pupils concentration and hearing could be developed. In such circumstances, if at all, the invention would prove its practicability.

The ophophone is no longer being developed or studied in this country, we are told, and unless the inventors succeed in simplifying the musical alphabet so that it can be mastered with less difficulty, there the matter will probably rest.

JUST FOLKS

BY EDGAR A. GUEST.

A SENSE OF HUMOR
"What shall I give him now?" said God.
"He has the strength with which to plod
The ways of life, the love of fight,
The gift of song when skies are bright.

"Wisdom is planted in his mind;
This man shall be both true and kind,
Earth's beauty shall delight his eyes,
And to its glories he shall rise.

"He shall know right from wrong, and he
the Defender of the faith shall be;
What more on him can I bestow
Before to earth I let him go?"

Then spoke an angel standing near:

"Wisdom is not enough, I fear,
Master, for all that he must do—
Grant him a sense of humor, too.

Grant him to smile at petty wrong,

The chafing mind which may be throned
When evils annoy him; show him then
How laughable are angry men!"

Years after, when his strength was taxed,
"What keeps you patient?" he was asked.
"What keeps you brave who are so tried?"
"My sense of humor," he replied.

HOROSCOPE

FRIDAY, MARCH 21, 1924.

Astrologers read this as a day of conflicting planetary influences. While Mercury, the Sun and Mars are all adverse, during certain hours
all the aspects change to benefic rule.

While this configuration prevails, the mind
may be disturbed and unsettled, while misgivings
and apprehensions may be dominant.

With the beginning of this spring of 1924, the entry of the Sun into Aries is attended by many threatening aspects.

Increase in poverty and unemployment appears to be foreshadowed, much industrial discontent being assured.

Tax reduction will be more and more discerned and there may be a sensation in the discovery that certain revenues have been wasted or at least deflected from their original purpose.

Agitation regarding interests affecting returned soldiers of the World war will engage more attention than at any time in the previous year,
it is expected.

Law courts are to hear many cases of scam-dal and libel in which men and women of prominence are concerned.

Nationwide sensations will increase in number and much bitterness will develop in polities.

Today it is wise to avoid making any important moves in business matters and new partnership agreements should be delayed.

Again race problems will come to the front.

Business and the market may be complicated by new places and new bodies.

Neptune in Leo will continue to disturb

Frances and it is prognosticated that a difficult international question will be troublesome.

The president of the United States is warned that he may suffer from the machinations of persons who are under obligations to support him in all his policies.

Persons whose birthday it is may have rather a strenuous year. They should be especially cautious about signing legal papers or writing letters.

Children born on this day may be headstrong and self-willed, but gifted and able to make headway in any business or profession. These subjects of Aries should have high ideals and fine intellects. They are usually generous, but quicks tempered.

YESTERDAY WAS

A ten gallon still was found in the home of Joseph Potackiewicz in Philadelphia. Potackiewicz himself was found at the Federal Building, having just signed citizenship papers under the statement, "I am attached to the principles of the Constitution of the United States and do solemnly swear to abide by its laws."

Fever is merely an indicator of some pathological process. Cooling fever, with a "fever powder," is like smashing the steam gauge with a monkey wrench.

Said the sage of the village,
As he pulled at his root,
It's time to be digging
Our sassafras root."

men in America and Europe, will be opened today

"You'll never find that fellow by 'ells' and yellin' up and down the country buncheted together like a truckin' circus," said Bert bluntly. "He can hear us for a mile and see us for twenty. Split the boys up into two, and go after 'Pap' like he was a dog."

But this proposed, while not unacceptable to the sheriff, who now knew that he was in the saddle, had developed a surprising zest for the work in hand, was not precisely to the minds of the sheriff's friends. They preferred a posse. Safety in numbers, you know. There was no certain element of safety in the split-the-dogs proposition. For the wily 'Pap' had undoubtedly obtained weapons by this time. Two men would run a fair chance of being filled full of holes. Besides, the posse the company owned, of which had already earned sixteen arrests, appeared very well equipped, with three dogs and a lot of money. There were solutions in "Farwell." The sheriff's friends made a suggestion.

"All right," said the sheriff. "I guess we've done enough for a while. I got business in town myself. Let's go."

Dolly Watson, looking out of the window of the justice office early one afternoon, saw what she had been waiting weeks to see.—Sun and Hank riding down Main street.

She drew back from the window into the comparative darkness of the room so that she would run no risk of being seen. Her expression was almost joyful, as she watched the boys dismount in front of the Happy Heart, tie their horses to the hitching rail and enter the saloon.

"That'll hold them for an hour or two," she said to herself and hurried to her room and changed into boots and a riding skirt. She put on her hat and went out the back door. The two boys were busy in the kitchen, she vowed, in the information that she was going out for a little ride. Mrs. Dolan, thinking no evil, watched her toss a rope across the back of one of the judge's horses in the corral, throw on a saddle and ride down into a draw that led into the ground fifty yards beyond the court. For the sake of Mrs. Dolan's peace of mind, it was an excellent thing that she did not have an inkling of the direction taken by Dolly when she left the draw.

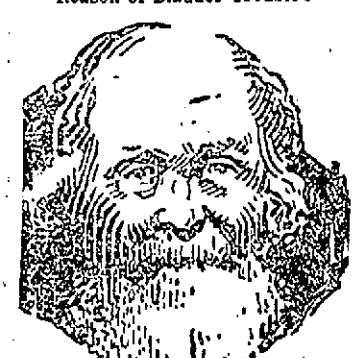

Dolly rode the draw till it cut a belt of timber. Then she took her horse to a log, stumbled him up the bank and scurried from any chance Farewell eyes in the stand of timber, followed straight for the trail to the Hawking ranch.

Once on the trail she powdered over it with the devil 'on her home tail.'

From the ranch she powdered outside from the trail and rode the low ground into the timber behind the house. Here, a hundred yards from the house, she left her horse tied short with his head in a barn sack and went forward on foot. She did not believe that Thornt had come home yet—if he had, he would surely have hidden in town with his brothers—but she believed in taking every precaution possible.

BEFORE TWINS WERE BORN

Was Very Miserable. Felt Lots Better After Taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Wyocca, Wis.—"I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound before my twins were born because my sister used it and recommended it to me. I was so cold I could scarcely go about my daily work. I was in such misery. But after taking these compound bottles I was feeling lots better."

I took three bottles and half a bottle before I was confined and finished the bottle while I was in bed. I got up feeling fine and have taken care of the twins alone ever since. I recommend the Vegetable Compound highly and will sing its praises in the future."—Mrs. Ed. Glazier, Wyocca, Wis.

It is remarkable how many cases have been reported similar to this one. Many mothers are left in a weakened and run-down condition after childbirth, but for such mothers the care of the body is well-nigh impossible. Not only is it hard for the mother, but the child often will indirectly suffer.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is an excellent tonic for the mother both before and after childbirth. It is prepared from medicinal roots and herbs, and can be taken in safety by nursing mothers.

Heart and Home Problems

By ELIZABETH THOMPSON.
Letters May be Addressed to Mrs. Thompson, in Care of the Gazette.

INDOLENT HUSBAND

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I have been married less than a year.

Before marriage my husband had every earmark of an indolent, lazy man, and I believe was very ambitious.

Since our marriage he has lost, I think, every bit of his ambition.

His work requires three or four hours a day, and the remainder of the day he spends in bed or around the house. I have a good position and pay more than half the expenses.

Says His Prescription

Has Powerful Influence Over Rheumatism

Mr. James H. Allen suffered for many years from rheumatism. Many times this terrible disease left him helpless and unable to work.

He finally decided, after years of constant study, that he could be free from this affliction if he could eliminate uric acid deposits, commonly called uric acid deposits, were dissolved in the joints and muscles and expelled from the body.

With this idea in mind, he consulted physicians, made experiments and finally compounded a prescription that not only completely banished every sign and symptom of rheumatism from his system.

He freely gave his discovery, which he called "Piso's," to others, who took it with great delight and with marvelous success. After years of urging he decided to let sufferers themselves know about his discovery, through the news papers. He has therefore instructed druggists everywhere to dispense his remedy, so that all may benefit by it. The first pint bottle does not cost the way to a pinto recovery he will gladly return your money without comment.—People Drug Co. can supply you by mail.

Camphor Water For Eyes

Nothing has the quick action of simple camphor, with zinc, hydras, etc., as mixed in Lavopit eye wash.

One small bottle Lavopit helps any case weak, strained or sore eyes. Aluminum eye cup free, Smith Drug Co.—Advertisement.

My question is, how can I help him to wake up and try? He makes no effort to do better, and I want a home some day, and at this rate it will never be.

Is it my fault in some way, or is it yours? I can help him? I have tried every way I can.

ANSWER.—SAD WIFE.

The baby is doing excellently and the milk matter is purely one of discipline. Don't you let him see you break his bottle and then you can assure him definitely that there are no more, and he will have to use a cup? Give him some small reward for drinking down to the bottom of the cup. Have some fancy cup for his use.

Now I have been going with him for three or four weeks. There is another girl who went with him the same time I did. She is getting jealous. Is going around telling things against me and the boy. She goes to the same school and she is telling everybody.

I don't know what to do. Should I give up my boy friend or give up my girl friend?

KING TUT.

I would not advise you to give up your boy friend, and I would not be diplomatic to drop the girl. Since she has found she is not a friend, be very careful what you tell her, but continue to speak and do not let her see how much the things she has said have bothered you. Be very careful of your conduct, and you will not need to worry about her talk. Your character is the best test of Rosalie. If you do nothing to her, it would not be advised you, however, to go on any more night rides with the boy. Let him call at your home and go to good amusements with him, but be careful not to indulge in pleasures which might not be all right. Do not overdo the wander with your boy. I am sure you will be able to consider what I said, the less likely your friends will be to believe it. If you have a lot to say about the matter and try hard to vindicate them, they are apt to think there is reason for your concern.

HAVE COLOR IN CHEEKS

Be Better Looking—Take Olive Tablets

If your skin is yellow—complexion pallid—tonics coated—appetite poor—you have a bad taste in your mouth—no energy—a good feeling you should take Olive Tablets.

Olive Tablets—made from pure oil of mustard, camphor, menthol and other oils—have a stimulating and invigorating effect on the body.

As effective as the messy old mustard plaster, does the work without blister.

Just rub it on with your finger-tips. You will feel a warm tingle as it enters the pores, then a cooling sensation that brings welcome relief.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets—substitute for calomel—were prepared by Dr. Edwards after 17 years of study.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets are a purely vegetable compound mixed with olive oil. You will know them by the olive color.

To help the complexion, rub the tablets on the face, neck and hands.

They start the bile and overcome constipation. Take one or two nightly and note the pleasing results.

Millions of boxes are sold annually at 15¢ and 30¢.

Busy Man's Sport Page

By FRANK SINCLAIR

ONE DAY recently, Al Grebe, one of the proprietors of Grebe & Newman's alleys, was startled to learn that two of his pin boys were using their feet. In other words, the boys were letting the pins strike their shoes as they were scattered by the ball. They did it in such a clever way that Grebe didn't know what to do about it. Al called the kids over and questioned them. They were surprised only when asked for the why and wherefore. "Why, don't you want that here?" one of them piped up. "We didn't know that up in Milwaukee where we come from, we'd get fired if we didn't kick 'em down." "I know," said another. "Maybe they do what it in Milwaukee, and maybe they don't, those kids learned the trick somewhere. No sportsman wants the pins kicked down for him. He wants to get only what he deserves from the kind of a ball he throws. Grebe is a credit to the alleys for enlisting a hand to the practice quickly."

THE SUSTAINED interest of the Janesville Sunday school basketball league has been a remarkable credit to the organization this year. The race has been one of thrills, anticipation and suspense. The players have had wonderful trials and tribulations, but play on. There is no longer as that of the new high school gymnasium. It means much to the future of the sport in the city to have so many youngsters taking part in such an organization. It means much to the future life of the community to have such a large number of young men chancing meeting each other on the cage court and learning that other boys are just like themselves. The attendance has been remarkable and demonstrates the popularity of this type of game.

WHAT'S UP WITH ERV GERBER OF WISCONSIN? The fans are wondering what's up with all the rumors about his latest inactivity, but no information comes forth. Last fall Gerber was declared ineligible because he was at a previous time connected with a Y. M. C. A. in La Crosse. After the football season was over, the Y.M.C.A. officials said he was not eligible again at a time when he might prove valuable as a swimmer and as a hammer thrower. The public cannot understand that kind of inaction. They wonder and they talk and poor Gerber is made to suffer. The man of street does not concern much in the hazing of a schoolboy, although he is such a nice sort of chap when it comes to the gate receipts and he surely hates procrastination—at least what looks like dallying.

Selection of the Y. W. C. A. league team to represent this city in a basketball game against the "YW" of Elgin at Elgin Saturday night, was announced Thursday by Miss Helen M. West, physical director. It will be composed as follows:

This will be the first out-of-town game of the season for the Janesville girls. All efforts this year have been devoted to developing a legend in order to give more girls an opportunity to play. The team that will go to Elgin will represent the pick of this organization.

Last year, the local "YW" had one of the finest records in the middle west.

and well-balanced team. The squad is a rousing outfit, filled with power and ready to fight hard and steadily.

In the night contest, Brodhead met a clever team in Waterloo and had to fight uphill in order to top the northern team led at the first quarter, 4 to 6, and at the half, 5 to 4. Brodhead pulled the score to 19 to 8 as the end of the third period. Consistent scoring gave them the victory.

It was the best exhibition of basketball in the meet. Both teams showed clever floor work and good work on the basket. Brodhead showed an excellent short pass system which will be hard to stop. The floor work and shooting of Black of Waterloo was the feature. Sun-magist:
